TOWNSHIP FINANCES

POLICE CHIEF SAYS THE TIMING OF THE $26 MILLION THEFT DISCLOSURE WAS HIS CALL ALONE

Chief Giuseppe DeChiara says an earlier announcement could have let the thieves move the money. Monday's committee meeting was moved to the library for a larger crowd; its results have not yet been posted.

COMPILED FROM TOWNSHIP STATEMENTS, AGENDAS AND PRESS REPORTS

CRANBURY — Cranbury's police chief said Monday that he alone decided when the public would learn of the roughly $26 million stolen from the township, answering criticism that residents were not told until after the Nov. 3 election.

In a statement posted Monday afternoon, Chief Giuseppe DeChiara wrote that he had issued a confidentiality directive to all township employees, later extended to the mayor and members of the Township Committee, barring public discussion that could compromise the investigation. He said the decision on when and what to release was his, based on the status of the case, and that the perpetrators might have moved the funds before they could be traced had the township spoken sooner.

> "Our priority is to follow the money, preserve recoverable assets, establish the full scope of the alleged fraud, and ensure accountability."
> — POLICE CHIEF GIUSEPPE DECHIARA

DeChiara wrote that the frozen funds likely represent the largest identifiable share of the stolen money, and that the rest appears to be spread across multiple accounts and transactions. His department and the Middlesex County Prosecutor's Office are tracing the transactions and pursuing anyone who may have taken part in or benefited from the crime, he said.

THE THEFT SO FAR

The money, set aside to buy land for the township's affordable housing obligations, was taken through a fraudulent wire transfer on Sept. 28, according to the township's Nov. 6 official statement and a letter to residents from Mayor Lisa Knierim. A task force led by the township police and the county prosecutor has frozen nearly $17.3 million. The township has not said how the transfer was diverted, and representatives are reviewing insurance coverage for possible recovery.

MONDAY'S MEETING

Citing expected attendance, the township moved Monday's Township Committee meeting from Town Hall to the Cranbury Public Library. The agenda called for introducing ordinances to create Assistant Township Administrator and Assistant Chief Financial Officer posts, with adoption scheduled for Nov. 23, and a resolution hiring PKF O'Connor Davies LLP for financial consulting. It also listed a closed session on personnel matters and possible litigation. As of Tuesday morning, neither the township nor the news reports reviewed here described what the committee decided or how officials answered residents; results will be reported when they are posted or approved minutes are released.

QUESTIONS AND COVERAGE

The New Jersey Globe reported that the mayor's Nov. 6 letter did not explain why residents were not told before the vote; the chief's statement is the township's first account of the timing. Coverage has spread to CBS New York, NBC New York, ABC7 New York and News 12 New Jersey, and PIX11 reported residents' concerns about taxes and the township's financial safeguards.

ELECTION

Szczur wins open committee seat

Democrat Thomas Szczur Jr. defeated Republican Carol Haring, 1,197 votes to 700 (about 63% to 37%), for the Township Committee seat held by Matt Scott, who did not seek re-election, the New Jersey Globe reported. The result keeps all five seats in Democratic hands. Szczur is a certified public accountant. Results are unofficial until certified by the county.

MONDAY, NOV. 9 · RESULTS PENDING

Monday's agenda: new finance posts, a cannabis tax and a talk on ICE

Moved to the Cranbury Public Library, 30 Park Place West · Streamed on the township YouTube channel

The township moved the meeting to the library to fit the expected crowd. No vote results had been posted by Tuesday morning; this preview of what was scheduled stays up until they are.

The agenda also carried a public hearing on new stormwater rules, four first readings and nine consent resolutions. The Parks and Recreation Commission is also scheduled to report, including price quotes for Millstone Park improvements.

The agenda called for a work session on ICE and municipal land, plus its 2027 meeting schedule. In September, members added restricting ICE activity on township land to their list of action items. At the Sept. 14 meeting, a resident asked for an ordinance barring federal agents from using township property for ICE staging or processing. Mayor Knierim wrote in her Oct. 27 update that the session lets members review information and consider possible municipal action.

ORDINANCES

ADOPTED OCT. 13

Data centers and detention facilities banned in every zone

The committee adopted two zoning ordinances on Oct. 13 after unanimous introduction Sept. 14 and Planning Board consistency reviews Oct. 1.

Ordinance 09-26-20 defines a data center and adds it to the uses prohibited in all districts. The ordinance cites water and electricity demand, noise and grid strain, and the state's still-developing data center policy. It exempts server rooms that serve only a property's own business.

Ordinance 09-26-21 prohibits detention, correctional and other carceral facilities in all zones, explicitly including detention centers used for civil or immigration detention.

ADOPTED OCT. 13

After 30 years, Municipal Alliance is dissolved

Ordinance 09-26-22 repeals Chapter 26 of the township code, which created the Municipal Alliance Committee on Alcoholism and Drug Abuse. Four speakers at the Sept. 28 meeting urged the committee to keep it, citing decades of school and prevention programs.

In her Oct. 14 update, Mayor Knierim wrote that its programs can continue through Cranbury School, the Police Department, the library and the Board of Health. She said both the police chief and the school superintendent, who sit on the Alliance, have committed to carrying them forward. The Alliance still meets Tuesday, with the committee's ordinance on its agenda.

RULES OF ORDER

New bylaws set five-minute public comment

Resolution R 09-26-105, adopted Sept. 14, sets the committee's order of business and gives each member of the public a single five-minute comment, up from three. It bars members from discussing township business by email among a majority of the committee and generally requires attendance in person.

PLANNING BOARD

No quorum, no meeting; Cranbury Gates waits until Dec. 3

The Planning Board canceled its Nov. 5 meeting for lack of a quorum. Kerzner Associates' application for Cranbury Gates at 109 South Main Street (PB411-25) will be heard Dec. 3 without further notice. The application seeks amended Phase I site plan approval for a pump station and force main, and was continued from the board's Sept. 3 meeting.

New filing: William and Bonnie Murphy have applied to subdivide 56-58 Cranbury Neck Road (Block 23, Lot 98.02, A100 zone), PB417-26.

Pending: Mainpark LLC's site plan with bulk variances for 61-63 North Main Street (PB408-25) was on the Oct. 1 agenda. Minutes recording the outcome have not been posted.

ZONING BOARD OF ADJUSTMENT

Route 130 garage site cleared for Enterprise move

The Zoning Board unanimously approved GSN Legacy Corp.'s use variance and site plan for 2681 Route 130 on Sept. 2. The plan calls for a roughly 7,200-square-foot commercial building, partly for the owner's existing use and partly for a relocated Enterprise Rent-A-Car. The board was to memorialize the approval Oct. 7.

Nov. 4 hearings: a rear-setback variance for 19 Washington Drive (ZBA424-26, Hiten Makwana), and front and rear setback variances for 9 Arthur Lane (ZBA421-26, PRC Development Co.), carried from October. Outcomes will appear when minutes are approved.

REVIEW & PRESERVATION

A Prospect Plains concept review; three historic district cases

The Development Review Committee took an informal concept review Oct. 1 from Sudler Development Co. for 280 Prospect Plains Road (Block 5, Lot 2.072, Light Industrial zone; DRC423-26). Its Nov. 5 meeting was canceled for lack of business, and it next meets Dec. 3.

The Historic Preservation Commission heard three applications Oct. 20: a shed at 7 Cranbury Neck Road (HPC294-26), window replacement at 68 North Main Street (HPC295-26) and an addition at 6 Scott Avenue (HPC296-26).

HISTORIC PRESERVATION · TUE., NOV. 10, 7 P.M.

Depot application, design guidelines, Town Hall doors

The commission continues work on design guidelines for the Village and Cranbury Station Hamlet districts, a preliminary application for the railroad depot building, a state Certified Local Government grant and a five-year strategic plan. In September it asked to add molding to Town Hall's exterior doors. The committee wants a timeline, warranty and a sample first.

PARKS, TREES & ENVIRONMENT

Court damage, a dock grant and a forestry plan

Parks & Recreation: Pickleball nets left on the Village Park tennis courts have damaged the surface. The courts remain under the contractor's performance bond, and new signs are coming. A $25,000 state grant will replace the floating dock and storage shed, with work expected in the spring. The commission next meets Nov. 18.

Shade Tree: The commission is soliciting quotes from three forestry consultants for its 2028–2032 Community Forestry Management Plan. Thirteen trees of eight species were planted in May.

Environmental: The commission meets Nov. 16. It is working on an adopt-a-catch-basin program and an outdoor classroom. It is also updating the township's community energy plan, a step needed to compete for a PSE&G grant; the plan advises replacing Town Hall's boiler.

PUBLIC WORKS

Leaf season is here, a week late

Heavy demand for curbside chipping pushed the start of leaf collection back one week, to Nov. 2. Collection continues through the last week of December, and each route takes about two weeks. Keep leaves separate from branches and out of storm drains. Final paving on Petty Road near the Regency development was expected the first week of November, weather permitting. DPW has two job openings.

POLICE

How Cranbury uses license plate readers

After residents raised questions, the township published details of its automated license plate readers. It has 11 fixed cameras and 13 equipped patrol cars, using Axon, Flock and Backtrace systems, and has used the technology since about 2006. Only detectives and supervisors may run searches. Axon data is kept about 180 days, and the township's document gives a separate retention period for Flock under its contract.

FLOODING · FINANCES

Report your wet spots; a passing grade on best practices

Cranbury is part of a federally funded flooding study of 10 southern Middlesex towns and a six-town watershed assessment with the Watershed Institute. Residents can report flooding, standing water or eroding streambanks through the Upper Millstone survey.

The township scored 44.5 on the state's annual Best Practices checklist, above the 34 needed to keep full Energy Receipts Tax aid. The review recommended formally documenting the township's surplus policy.

ABOUT THE CRANBURY MINUTE. An independent digest of Cranbury Township government, created by John Irons. AI (Claude, made by Anthropic) is its primary author and editor: it gathers the township's news posts, Agenda Center, Public Notices page and minutes, plus outside press reports, and writes and edits each edition. It is not an official township publication and is not affiliated with the township or any newspaper.

HOW TO READ IT. Every item links to its source. Minutes are the official record. Agendas show only what is scheduled, and results are reported once minutes are approved, usually several weeks later. When a source and this digest differ, the source governs. Because the writing is AI-generated, treat every item as a pointer to the record rather than the record itself, and check the linked source before relying on it.

THIS EDITION covers postings through Tuesday, Nov. 10, 2026, at 10:55 a.m. ET. Results of the Nov. 9 Township Committee meeting had not been posted when it was compiled. Watch meetings live on the township YouTube channel. To get notices directly, sign up at Notify Me.
